School Board Once Again Deadlocks Over Choice Of Successor to Fill Lee Silver's Township Seat

For the second time in a row, the School Board has deadlocked over the choice of a successor to Lee Silver, the Township representative who resigned in May. Last Tuesday night, as it did two weeks earlier, the Board split 4-4 between Regina Simpson and Mary Robertson Cohen.

The lineup was the same, with Ruth Boulet, David Robbins, David Meadow, and Gina Kolata supporting Ms. Cohen; and Todd Tieger, Michael Littman, Steve Carson and Ricardo Bruce voting in favor of Ms. Simpson. Bill Persons, the Cranbury representative, is not allowed to vote on this issue. If he were, he said, he would cast his ballot for Ms. Simpson.

What will happen now is the question, but no one seems happy with the probable answer. By law, the Mercer County superintendent of schools is charged with selecting a replacement in the case of a deadlock.

"I called the County superintendent and asked how to proceed," said Mr. Carson. "He said he had never done this before and sort of pleaded for us to make a decision. He asked if there were a compromise candidate."

Ms. Cohen, a resident of Clover Lane, is a lawyer, teacher, and former member of the Regional Planning Board. Ms. Simpson, of Sassafras Row, a homemaker who is active in the schools, ran for a seat on the Board last year. She came in third, 13 votes behind Mr. Robbins, who was seeking his second term on the Board.

"Clearly the two candidates have two different credentials," said Mr. Carson. "On balance I don't see one stronger than the other. I turn to the willingness of one candidate, Regina, to go to the public."

Ms. Kolata said she continued to support Ms. Cohen. "I feel Mary, like Regina, can reach out to many members of the community. I'm extraordinarily impressed by her credentials."

Dr. Meadow cited the fact that Ms. Cohen is a member of a minority group, and that the Board should consider this. "She has a keen

Dismissed Principal Takes Legal Action Against School Board

Lois Zabriskie, who was refused tenure as principal of Community Park School, has filed suit against the district. The School Board has until July 8 to respond to the complaint, which was filed in mid-June with the State Education Department.

On April 9, it was announced that Superintendent of Schools Marcia Bossart would not renew Dr. Zabriskie's contract, thus denying her tenure. Last month, Sheila Cole was named new principal of Community Park.

Dr. Zabriskie's suit alleges that she had already received tenure because she was employed for more than three years; that Dr. Bossart did not follow correct procedures in the annual performance review; and that the superintendent treated her in a biased manner because of her religion.

After the announcement that Dr. Zabriskie would leave the district, a large number of Community Park parents joined together in an effort to reverse Dr. Bossart's decision.

In late May, at Dr. Zabriskie's request, the School Board held a public hearing on Dr. Bossart's refusal of tenure. During the hearing, Dr. Zabriskie said Dr. Bossart had criticized her because she did not attend a school work day held on a Saturday. Dr. Zabriskie, who is Jewish, observes the Sabbath on Saturday.

Trenton State College Name Change Treads on Princeton University Toes

Amid gale-force storms of protest, the Trustees of Trenton State College voted on Thursday to change the name of the institution to the College of New Jersey. The announcement of the impending name change, made only six days before the vote of the Board of Trustees, brought cries of "foul" from Princeton University, which was known as the College of New Jersey from 1746 to 1896.

The change also inspired outrage on the part of alumni and faculty of the former TSC, who complained that they should have been consulted beforehand, and who also alleged that the College was trying to disassociate itself with the city of Trenton. (The school is actually located in Ewing Township.)

The reaction across Mercer County was quick and varied. In high dudgeon, The Trentonian newspaper thundered in its headlines against the perceived slight to the state's capitol. Trenton State College alumni groups threatened to withhold financial support.

T-shirts appeared in Princeton with the logo "College of New understanding of being African-American in the world and in Princeton," he said.

Several persons who congregated outside the meeting room after the discussion discounted this argument, pointing out that Ms. Simpson is married to a member of a minority group, and thus would also understand minority concerns on a personal level.

12 Did Not Graduate

Board members voted against sending the issue to the County superintendent at this time, even though they have only until the end of July to make a decision. The majority went along with Mr. Carson's suggestion to "keep this in our court as long as possible."

School Superintendent
Marcia Bossart reported to the School Board that 12 seniors did not graduate in June. This is four fewer than the 16 who did not graduate last year.

Four of the 12 did not graduate only because of attendance, said Dr. Bossart. Of the other eight, she said, poor attendance was only one factor. Other factors might include failures, lack of credits, and missing requirements.

"A major problem at the high school is attendance," said the superintendent. "The entire staff needs to deal with the problem, along with parents."

The attendance policy states that no student at Princeton High School may, for any reason, be absent more than 18 days in a full-year course or nine days in a semester course without losing credit in that course.

On Friday, Business Administrator Daniel Swirsky said that the high school guidance department was in the midst of mobilizing resources to help the non-graduating seniors obtain the necessary credits.

Choir to Visit Moscow

The School Board voted to approve a 1997 tour of the Princeton High School Choir to Moscow, providing the money can be raised.

The choir has received an invitation to participate in the 850th Anniversary Celebration of Moscow. The tour is scheduled during spring break, with possibly one additional school day. Highlights would consist of three performances in and around Moscow.

A joint concert with a leading Russian Youth Choir is being planned. The families of the Russian choir would be the PHS choir hosts. In turn, the Russian choir would travel to Princeton the following year.

The Princeton High School Choir toured to Berlin in 1964, Vienna in 1973 and 1984, Paris-Colmar in 1989, Colmar-Pettoranello in 1992, and London-Paris-Colmar in 1995.

The School Board also approved the appointment of James Giordano as the new supervisor of math at Princeton High School. He has held a similar position in Moorestown for seven years.

Martin Small, a teacher at John Witherspoon Middle School, was appointed supervisor of foreign languages.

The School Board is not scheduled to meet again until August 20, well beyond expiration of the State deadline to name a new member. It's anyone's guess what happens now.

Jersey — since 1746 ... a.k.a. Princeton University." Over the weekend, two Princeton University graduates were charged with trying to steal the College of New Jersey signs that were posted at the College entrance on Route 31.

Theft of History

In letters to local newspapers (see page 16), Princeton University Vice President for Public Affairs Robert Durkee recited historically significant aspects of the University's history, and effectively accused Trenton State College of trying to co-opt the University's past.

"Much important U.S., New Jersey, and collegiate history took place at the College of New Jersey," he wrote. "So it is not surprising that Trenton State wishes to wrap itself in that history by taking over a name that, for 150 years, was the name of what is now Princeton University."

In recent years, Trenton

State College has been cited in national publications as being one of the best educational bargains in the country in terms of both cost and quality of instruction. This recognition led to more applicants for admissions, and had made competition for available spots in each freshman class much stiffer.

College officials reported that by changing the school's name to the College of New Jersey, it would "more accurately [reflect] the college's mission and scope of service to the people of New Jersey."

Almost as soon as word was out about the pending name change, the University filed for copyright protection at the Federal and State level, said spokesperson Mary Caffrey.

The University seems prepared to fight the name change in the court system. "We have consulted with outside counsel," says Ms. Caffrey, "and we are making the decision on how, exactly, we want to proceed."

Sign Theft

On Friday, less than one day after the Trenton State College Board of Trustees voted in favor of the proposed name change, signs reading "The College of New Jersey" were placed over the old Trenton State College signs at the entrance to the campus on Route 31.

By Saturday morning, they were lying in the bushes nearby, having been torn down and pelted with eggs. At 2:55 p.m., campus police arrested a pair of Princeton alumni, and charged them with trying to take the signs.

Daniel J.T. Mills '70 and Albert Glenn Paul '79, both of Titusville, were stopped when officers allegedly found them strapping the signs to the top of a Jeep. Mr. Mills was charged with theft, and Mr. Paul was charged with receiving stolen property.

Mr. Mills was quoted in the Times of Trenton as saying that he was bothered by seeing the signs "desecrated" and wanted to "clean them up."

LEADING THE WAY: A color guard from the Princeton Borough Police department led the way down Nassau Street Saturday, as the Princeton Fire Department staged its annual Inspection Parade.

Meeting of John-Witherspoon Neighborhood On Quality-of-Life Draws 75 to Clay Street

Every seat was taken at last Thursday night's meeting called by Township Mayor Michele Tuck-Ponder to discuss quality-of-life concerns in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood.

This was a follow-up to a meeting on June 6, when Mayor Tuck-Ponder, Borough Mayor Marvin Reed, and other municipal officials listened as neighborhood residents voiced complaints about overcrowding, noise, and garbage.

About 20 Latino residents of the community were present last Thursday night. An effort had been made by Mayor Tuck-Ponder to encourage their attendance, since none had been at the earlier meeting. Frances Blanco, executive director of the Mercer County Hispanic Association, translated all the comments into Spanish.

Township officials confirmed that Alfred Kahn, owner of the building at the corner of Leigh and John streets, had agreed to remove the stone enclosures he had illegally constructed on the John Street side of the building. These had enclosed garbage cans.

TOPICS Of the Town

In addition, Mr. Kahn has agreed to eliminate the four illegal apartments in the building, reducing the number of units from 13 to nine.

Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer said the Township was working to find places to live for the people who would have to leave Mr. Kahn's apartment building when the illegal units were removed.

Rhetta Hoagland, a community organizer, asked how Mr. Kahn had gotten away without a permit for the apartments. Mr. Kahn replied that he had put in the units 22 years ago.

A resident described how she perceived the rental situation in Princeton. "The problem is high rents and a shortage of housing," she said. "People pay $1,200 to $1,500 in rent. Therefore there is multiple occupancy in single dwellings so people can have places to live."

Mayor Reed agreed with the description. "I know landlords charge one rent for regular occupants, more for a larger family recently moved to town, and even more if it's a group of students."

Ms. Hoagland said she also wanted to talk about Lytle Street, "which is one of the worst streets in the neighborhood, with overcrowding."

Artworks Loses Studios in Patterson Center

For the first time in 32 years, Artworks will not have a permanent home in Princeton.

After being situated on Nassau Street, Spring Street and Ettl Farm, the non-profit organization was most recently located in the Suzanne Patterson Center behind Borough Hall. On July 1, Artworks lost this Princeton location when the Borough decided it needed the space for its own use.

In 1964, Artworks was founded as the Princeton Art Association, offering the entire community accessible education in the visual arts. Since then, students of all ages and all levels of experience have attended classes taught by professional artists with years of teaching skills.

In addition, Artworks has offered art workshops, lectures, critiques, demonstrations, day trips, summer art camps, international exchanges, and outreach programs.

The Trenton facility of Artworks, located in a large, turn-of-the-century building in the historic Mill Hill district, remains unaffected by the Princeton move.

The arts organization is searching for space. Anyone with possible locations to suggest should call board members Dianne Williams at 951-9341 or Pam Mount at 924-2310.

runs a dilapidated joint."

Mayor Tuck-Ponder had said earlier that, even though Mr. Kahn had been vilified, he was not the only one involved. "By addressing the situation in his property, you don't solve the problem," she said.

"The focus in this area will be on quality-of-life complaints, drugs, people selling drugs, violations of the noise ordinance, loitering, vehicles no longer used being parked in driveways, illegal parking, and speeding," Township Police Capt. Peter Savall told the residents.

He said Township Police had stepped up enforcement with marked and unmarked vehicles, and that the department was concerned about alcohol violations in the Community Park area.

At the end of the meeting, Ms. Blanco spoke feelingly of how painful it had sometimes been to participate as a translator. She asked that the community take a more humane approach to its Latino members, and said that enforcement of ordinances on overcrowding would force Latinos out on the street.

"The Latino community is the bastard child of the community," she said. "Instead of fingerpointing, why don't you help us? Teach us, help us, give us a chance. We are a community. We should be one community."

About 200 parents and teachers attended the hearing, and some 15 testified on behalf of the principal.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Dr. Bossart said she would not reconsider her recommendation against tenure for Dr. Zabriskie.

On Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Zabriskie said that she had made it clear she was considering a suit when she chose to have a public hearing.

Commenting on the suit, she said she feels she already held tenure because she began her job on May 3, 1993, when John Kazmark moved to the principalship of Johnson Park. Tenure begins after the completion of three years of employment in a school district. Dr. Zabriskie's final day was June 30.

Man Threatening To Set Self on Fire Talked Out of Suicide

Two Borough police officers and two priests from St. Paul's Church managed to talk a despondent 36-year-old Trenton man out of committing suicide on Friday night. The man, who was not identified, had doused himself with lighter fluid, and was threatening to set himself on fire, said police.

At 10:15 p.m., Officers Christopher Quaste and Steve Riccitello, members of the Borough Police department's bicycle patrol, were told by a passerby that a man near the corner of Nassau Street and Washington Road was pouring lighter fluid on himself.

They found him sitting on a stone wall near Princeton University's Firestone Library, holding a book of matches in his hand. "He told them that he wanted to die," said Police Captain Peter Hanley.

The victim was transported to the Medical Center at Princeton for observation.

—Rob Garver

The Revs. Evasio DeMarcel-

lis and Brian Butch were called, and a third officer brought them to the scene in a police cruiser.

"We just asked him how he was doing," said Father Butch. "He told us he was upset, and he wanted us to say a prayer with him. We prayed with him, and then we started talking, and he agreed to put the matches down."

Father Butch, who joined St. Paul's parish only two weeks ago, said that he has had to deal with potential suicides in the past. "It is very common to have people call a priest in a crisis situation."

He reported that the police officers on the scene did a good job dealing with the man. "I was impressed at how well the police handled it — they were very kind to him. It gives you a good feeling."

The victim was transported to the Medical Center at Princeton for observation.

Water Company Night Work Disturbs Residents

The night work currently under way on University Place by Elizabethtown Water Company has brought noise complaints from residents. Their concerns were expected to be discussed at the Borough Council meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, July 2.

Elizabethtown is removing an old, semi-clogged water pipe under University Place and replacing it with a new 12-inch main. This pipe supplies water to University Place and to part of the Princeton University campus. Borough and fire officials have sought its replacement with a larger one in order to improve water pressure in the event of a fire.

Borough Administrator Thomas Shannon said that he and Borough Engineer Carl Peters have been discussing alternative options with Elizabethtown, including doing the work by day.

Mr. Shannon said that it would be impossible to close University Place during the day because Mercer and Alexander streets would become unbearable. One alternative, however, would be to make University Place one way during construction.

Right now, this would be impossible because the main is in the center of the roadway. The Borough's hope is that there might be a way to move the main over to one side of the road, thus enabling work to be confined to that side.

One problem in doing this, however, is that the world under Borough streets is a tangle of utilities, some dating back a hundred years. This leaves little space for a new 12-inch main.

The work — whenever it is done — is expected to take four weeks on a four-day-per-week schedule.

Council Gives Approval To Extended Flag Display

Borough Council last week voted to allow the American flags currently lining both sides of Nassau Street to remain through Labor Day.

Late this spring, a citizens' group had received permission to fly the flags from Memorial Day through July 4. Their request to keep them up through Labor Day, however, was rejected by Council. Among the group's members are Ray Wadsworth, Larry Dupraz, Ray Rodeweller, and Kate Warren.

Councilman Roger Martinell said he considered the fact that the town had neither a Memorial Day Parade nor a Fourth of July celebration when he voted to extend the time the flags could fly.

Councilwoman Mildred Trotman voted against the extension. She said she was not anti-flag, and flew one at home. She also said that her twin brother died as a result of injuries sustained in the Vietnam War.

Principal Not Candidate For Readington Post

On Monday, Johnson Park Principal John Kazmark said he was no longer a candidate for the position of school superintendent in the Readington School District.

According to sources, he had been encouraged to apply for the position by former Princeton Regional Interim School Superintendent Richard Willever. There was no further information available as to why Dr. Kazmark was no longer a candidate.

Dr. Kazmark has been a principal in the Princeton district for seven years, first at Community Park School and then as principal of the newly reopened Johnson Park School.

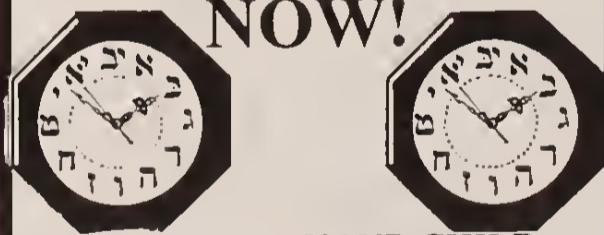

He had said earlier that the Readington post was the first he had sought in his seven years in Princeton. The district, in Hunterdon County, is close to his home.

The Coalition for Peace Action has elected Darlene McKnight of Trenton as its new chairperson. She replaces the Rev. Leslie Smith, rector of Trinity Church, who has served as chair since May, 1993.

Ms. McKnight is the first woman, the first person of color, and the first person from outside Princeton to serve as chairperson. She became involved with the Coalition in 1990, when she was active in the Coalition's effort to prevent a war in the Middle East. She subsequently became chairperson of the Coalition's Trenton affiliate. In 1993, she was elected as vice-chair for outreach. She has also served as an adult advisor to the Youth for Peace affiliate, made up of central Jersey teenagers.

The Coalition also elected Sylvia Temmer of Skillman as vice-chair for Education; Ellen Saxon of Princeton as vice-chair for outreach; Gale Colby of Princeton as Secretary; and Stuart Brown of Princeton as Treasurer.

Moving Right to Impact Schools Here

There are some things establishing this curriculum; but it includes revenues other than taxes, such as tuition from Cranbury.)

The first is that enrollment proved the entire amount will continue to increase. The second is that it will take more money to hire additional staff for these extra students, as well as to meet other increasing expenditures in the next school year. While in the past, voters ap-

Dr. Swirsky pointed out that Princeton is dealing with increasing enrollment and an aging infrastructure. He also said that the governor's proposed plan dramatically reduces aid to special education and does not provide funding for capital projects.

What is not certain is the nature of the mechanism that schools — as Princeton would will be used to fund the — that amount, and that Princeton Regional District amount only, would require Gov. Christie Whitman's voter approval.

school financing plan — There are no state limits on which changes the funding formula throughout the state — is expected to come before the Legislature this fall. How it will finally shape up is still unknown.

The plan, which the governor asserts will meet the New Jersey Supreme Court's criteria for educational equity within the state, would have a major impact on how Princeton's schools are financed.

The proposed plan establishes a statewide core curriculum and attempts to insure that all school districts have the resources to implement this. Poorer districts would get aid from the State in this — about $35 million —

An effort is now under way to deal with the lack of funding for capital projects through Legislative approval of a 25 cent tax increase on cigarettes. This money would be used to help finance a $4 billion public school construction and renovation plan.

The governor's plan, said Dr. Swirsky, eliminates funding for county special services school districts. "Every single child we send to this school will cost us triple," he said. It also reduces aid to special education.

"The State is hoping these measures will force school districts to bring in the children from the county schools," said Dr. Swirsky. "The problem is, we're at capacity."

Under the governor's proposed plan, all districts with elementary enrollment must develop a plan to establish preschool and full-day kindergarten by 2001-2002. While Princeton offers full-day kindergarten, there is no preschool available in the public system.

Honore's Barber Shop Closes Its Doors

By the time the press release arrived last week from Palmer Square Management stating that the owners of Honore's Barber Shop had announced their retirement, it was as if the business — which had been in Princeton for at least eight decades — had never existed.

The former barber shop is now completely empty, the walls down to cinderblock, and the sign gone. Also gone is the elegant brass chandelier that had followed the shop in its travels.

A typed note on the door last week read, "With great sadness Honore's Barber Shop has decided to close. We would like to thank you for your friendship and patronage over the many years." This was the only indication that there had once been a business there.

The note was signed by Mary DeCore, her son-in-law Bob Chaty, and her daughter, Elida DeCore Lutz. They had run the shop in recent years, since the death of Arthur DeCore, who began working at Honore's in 1929.

Palmer Square East turned out to be the last of the barber shop's several locations. In the early part of the century, when Nassau Street was still unpaved, it was located in the basement of the old bank building at Bank and Nassau streets. Customers could look at the Police Gazette or even glance at an old copy of La Vie Parisienne while waiting to occupy the chair. Jack Honore, it was said, never forgot the name of a Princeton student or graduate who patronized his shop.

For many years after that, the shop was at 38 Nassau Street, just west of John Street. It moved to Palmer Square West in 1962. In the 1980s, Palmer Square's management moved it to Palmer Square East, just north of the entrance to the Nassau Inn.

In his remembrance in TOWN TOPICS' 50th anniversary issue this past March 16, Asa S. Bushnell ill wrote about the "legendary deaf-mute bootblack, Elias Scudder," who worked at Honore's Barber Shop. "A book could be written about the aforementioned Mr. Scudder, who showed more love and loyalty for the University than most alumni and inspired a few of them, including my father, to learn sign language simply to communicate with him over the years.

"The dedicated bootblack died during my 3½-year stint at TOWN TOPICS, after suffering a heart attack while running across campus to catch a train to the Princeton-Yale football game in New Haven. I attended his funeral, wishing in silence that I could relate the wonderful tale about Tiger alumni securing his release from the New Haven pokey after a previous game there by convincing the jailer that the overenthusiastic deaf-mute fan was the father of Yale tailback/hero Levi Jackson."

The barber shop, no matter where its location, proudly displayed its collection of shaving mugs and framed photographs documenting Princeton history over the last 100 years. It is not known where this collection now rests, since none of the owners of Honore's could be located.

Palmer Square Management has not yet signed a lease for the 500-square-foot space, but expects to have a new shop in place by the end of the summer.

Summer Art Session Presented by YWCA

During the week of July 9-12, the YWCA Princeton will sponsor a series of single-session morning Summer Art programs. The programs, which will take place in the mornings at the YWCA's Bramwell Living Room, located on Bayard Lane in the Y complex, will focus on different art forms, including creating visual art, music, creative writing and art history.

On Tuesday, July 9, at 9:30, exhibiting artist Liz Adams will teach participants to create embossed note-cards, gift tags, and place-cards using a raised dimensional design. No art experience is necessary. The program lasts from 9:30 to 11:30.

On Wednesday, July 10 at 9:30, participants will enjoy "Music History through Performance." A sampler of music drawn from different historical periods will be played by community performers. Selections from the Medieval and Renaissance periods will be played on a variety of string, wind and other instruments, some of which may no longer be common, by musicians assembled by Mary Benton, librarian of Westminster Choir College. The Baroque period will be represented by performances for solo lute by musicologist Robert Butts. A woodwind quintet will represent the classical period, and for the 20th century, participants will be treated to the Blawenburg Band's Dixieland jazz group. The program lasts from 9:30 to 12:30.

On Thursday, July 11, Carol Williams, formerly the YWCA's Adult Program Director, who was a professor at Johns Hopkins University, will lead "Fiction Frolic," a playful workshop taking participants step by step down the road to creating a successful story. Based on

Prescription Fraud Leads to Woman's Arrest

Township police charged a killer Lorjet every other Bordentown woman with week from February of 1995 obtaining a controlled dangerous substance by fraud on Friday. Alice A. Sakalos, 36, of 19 Lancaster Court, was charged with 11 counts in the Township, said police. Similar charges are likely to be filed in Lawrence Township.

Ms. Sakalos was employed by a Township physician, said police, and used her access to prescription pads and other information to create false prescriptions.

Police said that she was regularly obtaining the pain-

had gone.

The thieves broke through a glass door to enter the store, and removed four laptop computers and four cellular phones.

A security guard at the SuperFresh stopped a 12-year-old Township boy who was spotted trying to steal three candy bars at 11:30 a.m. last Wednesday. The boy was handed over to police, and later released to his family pending action by the juvenile officer.

A fire at Princeton Community Village destroyed a $500 recycling shed on Juniper Row Wednesday night. Police were called to the scene at 7 p.m., and extinguished the blaze with fire extinguishers in their cars.

Police believe the fire was deliberately set, but have no suspects at this point.

Two cars parked in the Princeton House parking lot were vandalized with green spray paint on June 24.

Between 8 p.m. and 9:45 p.m., someone sprayed the paint across the hoods of a 1986 Ford station wagon and a 1996 Jeep Cherokee.

A swimmer at Community Park Pool reported the theft of an unattended carry-bag on Friday. The victim said that the bag disappeared between 6:45 p.m. and 7:45 p.m.

It contained property valued at $145, including towels, sunglasses, and personal items.

A bicycle stolen from a Moore Street backyard between 11:30 a.m. and 3:20 p.m. on Thursday was recovered later that day. A Borough police officer spotted a 17-year-old Township boy riding the stolen $600 Trek mountain bike, and took him into custody.

The bike was returned to its owner, and the thief was released to his family.

Found Mailbox

Some time ago it was reported here that the Township Police were in possession of a mailbox shaped like a dog, which had apparently been stolen and then abandoned. The owner of that mailbox came forward to claim it, and now the police are hopeful that the same will happen with another mailbox that has come into their keeping — this one dolphin-shaped.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

State Budget Signed by Governor

Gov. Christie Whitman has signed the state's $15.9 billion budget for 1996-97, but not before removing a disputed plan to take $2 million from a voter registration program to pay for the repair of the State House dome. She pledged other funds for the dome project, however.

The budget contains a $100 million property tax cut that allows home owners to deduct up to $2,500 of property taxes from their gross income reported on their state income taxes.

This will mean a savings of roughly between $25 and $75 for home owners. Renters will also be given a tax break.

Breathalyzers Reliable

In a unanimous ruling, the state Supreme Court has upheld the reliability of Breathalyzer tests used in drunk driving arrests.

Last July, a state appeals-court panel criticized the state for withholding the rules police follow to certify the accuracy of Breathalyzers.

Associate Justice Daniel J. O'Hern wrote that, unless there is evidence a Breathalyzer is not scientifically reliable, its results can be trusted in court.

Court Upholds Victim Impact Law

The state Supreme Court has upheld as constitutional the so-called "victim impact statute." This permits families of murder victims to testify in some death penalty cases.

In the majority opinion, Justice Marie Garibaldi wrote that victim impact statements should show "the impact of the crime on the victim's family and ... demonstrate that the victim was not a faceless stranger, but was a unique individual human being."

Gov. Christie Whitman's chief spokesman, Carl Golden, said the administration welcomed the ruling.

Poritz Confirmed

Princeton Township resident Deborah Poritz has been confirmed by the state Senate as New Jersey's first female chief justice of the state Supreme Court. She replaces the retiring Chief Justice Robert Wilentz, who is seriously ill with cancer.

The Senate also approved the nomination of Peter Verniero, Gov. Whitman's chief of staff, to succeed Chief Justice Poritz as attorney general.

The aqua-colored mailbox, which has the number "985" on it, was found on Friday. Police say it looks fairly new.

Trenton State Could Become The College "for" New Jersey

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The only college president to sign the Declaration of Independence was John Witherspoon, from the College of New Jersey. The first meeting ever of the New Jersey State legislature took place 220 years ago this summer on the campus of the College of New Jersey. The only U.S. Presidents educated in New Jersey, James Madison and Woodrow Wilson, were students at the College of New Jersey. The first intercollegiate football game was played between two New Jersey teams, including one wearing the orange colors of the College of New Jersey.

Much important U.S., New Jersey, and collegiate history took place at the College of New Jersey. So it is not surprising that Trenton State wishes to wrap itself in that history by taking over a name that, for 150 years, was the name of what is now Princeton University. We are proud of our history and proud of our original name, and we will do everything we can to prevent someone else from taking it from us.

In its efforts to continue to improve quality, we wish Trenton State every success, as we do for all other colleges and universities in New Jersey. But we hope the trustees of Trenton State will proceed under a name of their own, not under ours. At a minimum, if they decide to change, let them think about becoming the College for New Jersey, not the College of New Jersey, and leave our history to us.

County's Recycling Program Not Related To Resource Recovery Facility Construction

To the Editor of Town Topics:

From the articles that appeared in the two Trenton newspapers [TOWN TOPICS also ran a story based on these articles in its June 26th issue] I can understand how anyone could be confused as to the status of the County's recycling program. Mercer County residents will not experience any changes in their recycling program. I want to assure our residents that their yellow and green buckets will continue to be picked up exactly as they are now— pending the individual municipalities' acceptance of the current program. It is imperative at this juncture that the public understand that the County's recycling program and the resource recovery tipping fee are not related.

I want to make it clear that Mercer County's recycling program will continue whether or not we build the resource recovery facility. The elimination of 24 positions as mentioned in the article will not effect our curbside collection program. They are the result of the need to be more competitive in the new market-based system. What may change is the current level funding for educational programs, marketing initiatives and the number of Household Hazardous Clean Up Days conducted each year.

To reiterate, the staffing changes proposed at the MCIA are a result of the changing flow-control environment. While it is true that the lack of flow control requires that the tipping fee rates offered by the MCIA be competitive, the tipping fee is derived independently from the cost of recycling. Whether or not the resource recovery project goes forward, the County recycling program will continue on any level our towns desire.

This is not a new issue. I have explained the effects of a system operating without flow control to each town in our discussions about their participation in the incinerator project. We made it a point to explain that due to the lack of flow control, changes will be made in the manner in which costs are allocated for recycling and, therefore, each town will have to make a determination on the level of services they desire.

In order to understand the changing costs to our towns associated with recycling, an explanation of the previous charges for waste disposal is warranted. In the past, the cost of the entire recycling program was subsidized by the disposal of solid waste, particularly commercial waste. That is to say, that the cost of recycling was distributed over the total number of tons of trash generated by the municipalities, recyclables included. Without flow control, we must differentiate between the cost of solid waste disposal and the collection of recyclables. Market conditions dictate that costs will be determined on a fee-for-service basis. Because each fee will stand alone, there will be no relationship between the tipping fee for solid waste and the collection of recyclables. This will be the case regardless of the future of the resource recovery project.

The MCIA will be compiling a list detailing the costs of collection for recyclables. As soon as this list is completed, it will be made available to our towns so that they can examine the individual costs and determine the level of our recycling program in future.

Hopefully, Mercer County will maintain its current level of recycling. However, that decision will have to be made at the municipal level. The decisions that our towns make about the resource recovery facility, including the resolutions that are currently before many municipalities, will not effect recycling and should not be based on this mistaken assumption.

Meet Julius Mate

- He loves cooking gourmet meals for friends, family and the staff.
- After just one month he has made so many new friends, he is busy all the time and really feels a part of things.
- He worried a retirement community would mean the end of independence—he found it was just the opposite!
- He found the perfect retirement community: Monroe Village!

"I Love the Independence at Monroe Village"

"After I had a serious health problem, my children got really concerned. They said, 'Dad, you shouldn't live by yourself any more.' I didn't want them to worry, but I just didn't know what to expect. I was afraid I would have to give up too much of my freedom, but I tried to be open to their idea. Once we saw Monroe Village, I understood how I could continue to do all the things I love, without the worries of taking care of my big house alone."

"I love the freedom of living here. I can do whatever I want, or nothing at all. I have always been very independent, and Monroe Village just keeps me that way. Now I have lots of new friends to do things with, and there are always lots of interesting things happening here. I really like everything about Monroe Village, and my children are happy we found such a wonderful place. See for yourself how Monroe Village really lets you live your life."

Calling Princeton Township "Burr" Township Better Reflects Character of Its Residents

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As an old warrior in the merger wars, I was not surprised that a new army has been formed out of the Consolidation Study Commission to fight for consolidation. What more fruitful place for officers than the group that has favored merger all along?

I cannot resist a comment on the name chosen for this new group which will try to obliterate a municipality that has thrived for so long and only seems to be a hindrance to personal plans, goals and ideals of the members of the Consolidation Study Commission.

Your readers may be interested that one of the names considered by Preserve Our Historic Borough, the anti-merger group which I have been active with for a long time, was One Princeton - Princeton Borough Since 1696 (In passing, it is revealing that Princeton Borough is in the middle of its 300th anniversary and no mention of it has been made by officials who are willing to ignore that history. Nor by you, the recorder and guardian of public history.)

If the conflict of consolidation is semantic, that is, confusion results from having a Princeton Borough and a Princeton Township so close together, I suggest that Princeton Township change its name to eliminate the problem and, at the same time, gain an identity of its own.

I would suggest Burr Township, after a famous early resident of the area who is buried in Princeton Cemetery. He did, of course, kill Alexander Hamilton, the first Secretary of the Treasury of the United States but it was in a fair fight. He is also known for shady land deals, stealing property and trying to set himself up as emperor.

Elected Officials Should Hold Slumlords Accountable for Destroying Neighborhoods

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I agree that Princeton Township and Princeton Borough are both in need of more affordable housing for their residents. I agree that elected officials should respond to any neighborhood in regards to code violations, trash in the streets, overcrowding conditions in apartments etc. and car stereos blasting the gospel at 3 a.m.

However, I also agree that elected officials should hold any landlord or slumlord responsible for deliberately disobeying the law and for turning any stable neighborhood into an inhospitable and frightening mess.

Every neighborhood in Princeton Township and Princeton Borough is sacred and blessed with residents who form a link in the Community itself and anytime someone cuts a link in that chain it should not remain that neighborhood's problem, it should become everyone's problem.

Social psychologists adhere to the broken window theme where if a window in a building is broken and left unrepaired, the rest of the windows will soon be broken because one unrepainted window is a signal that no one cares and so breaking costs nothing.

This line of reasoning also holds true for all slumlords as well — when you let one off the hook, it's a signal to the others that they will also be granted the same consideration and that is simply not acceptable.

I urge the elected officials in both Princeton Township and Princeton Borough to hold the landlords or slumlords accountable in a monetary way because that's all these fellows understand. They are out to make money regardless of whom they hurt or what laws they break, and it becomes the fault of elected officials if they are allowed to proceed without any risk.

Abandonment of One's Own History Bad Enough But Theft of Another School's Name Is Worse

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Why not Eickhoff U.? That would at least be an honest representation of the direction that Trenton State College is apparently heading.

The abandonment of one's own history and tradition is bad enough, but the attempted theft of another institution's lineage compounds the problem immeasurably.

Wouldn't the entire Trenton State College community be better served by taking the considerable sums involved in the mere logistics of a name change, as well as the monies that will be wasted on the inevitable legal battles, and using them to fill needed faculty positions? Wouldn't the entire citizenry of the State of New Jersey be better served if our state college retained its own name and spent our resources on teaching?

Names do cry out to be changed here. They are the names of the President of Trenton State College and those of the members of his board of trustees.

Coward's Controversial "Design for Living" Presented by Westwind Repertory Company

Noel Coward's 1933 comedy Design For Living, written as a vehicle for himself, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine in the leading roles, spends three acts engaged in skeptical examination of the adage "two's company, three's a crowd."

Unable to abide by the rules of the well-regulated, "normal" world around them, the three main characters of this play ultimately find that they can live happily only in a menage à trois, described by another outraged character as "a disgusting, three-sided erotic hotch-potch!"

Currently playing at the Hun School in a production by the recently established Westwind Repertory Company, Design For Living presents a curious blend of the conventional and unconventional. The setting is the mannered world of high society Paris, London and New York between the wars, but it is also a world of artists, where "anything goes," married life is impossible, and homosexuality and bisexuality become the norm.

Shocking in 1933

Mr. Coward presents this "design for living" - controversial even in 1996 and undoubtedly shocking to Broadway audiences of 1933 - with his usual tact, humor and scintillating wit, suggesting strongly that the three protagonists inhabit a world of their own, with its own unique "design," a world unsuitable for ordinary mortals.

As usual with Mr. Coward, however, the moral issues are blurred, and, not surprisingly, audiences are likely to find that the three most outrageous, "scandalous" characters are also the most likeable, sympathetic and admirable characters in the play.

Gilda, an interior designer, is the focal point of the constantly shifting romantic triangle. She has an affair with Leo the playwright in the first act, deserting her lover Otto the painter and leaving Paris to live with Leo in London. Then, in act two, after spending the night with Otto, she leaves the two men together and goes off to marry an English art dealer, Ernest, and set up residence in New York. Bored with conventionality by act three, however, Gilda is ready to abandon her husband and rejoin her two soulmates when they appear to reclaim her. Ernest, the loser in this game of musical chairs, storms out as the three artists presumably live happily ever after.

Theater Veterans

Directed by Dale Simon, the Westwind Repertory Company, which includes many veterans of area theaters both amateur and professional, handles the effervescent

Coward style with skill and poise.

Laura Jackson as Gilda adroitly delivers the rapid-fire dialogue and portrays an appealing, thoroughly credible character, as she struggles through the conflicts and dilemmas of her life.

Mark David Murphy is a suitably bohemian Otto - vibrant, emotional and articulate, while Mark Warren Moede's Leo is also a convincing character, though he lacks some consistency and flair in carrying off the Coward high style and delicate wit.

Far Too Conventional

N. Charles Leeder, veteran local actor, playwright and producer, plays an amusing Ernest, the art dealer, suitor to Gilda and later husband, who is far too conventional to ever become a full-fledged member of the triumvirate.

Michele Klein, Barbara Hatch, Ed Staats and Melissa H. Somers complete the cast, offering support, contrast and occasional conflict to the bohemian world of the protagonists.

The set design by M.A. Young is a study in greys and whites and a worthy attempt with a modest budget to evoke the urban elegance of three luxurious apartments. The drabness of the decor and the awkwardness of four hanging doors without door frames do not contribute to the creation of the desired stylizedness of Coward's world, but Rob Rabideau's classy, colorful costumes do help to keep the audience's attention on the performers themselves.

Mr. Simon has directed this challenging play with intelligence and rehearsed his experienced ensemble effectively. The sophisticated verbal pyrotechnics come across clearly and articulately, and lovers of Hoy Fever, Private Lives and other Noel Coward creations will find much that pleases in this production.

Design For Living is not Mr. Coward's most concise, focused work, however, and even a staunch admirer of the polished verbal wit and the refreshingly irreverent assaults on society's conventions is likely to wish this evening - with its two intermissions and total duration of three hours - were a bit shorter.

-Donald Gilpin

Design For Living will run for three more performances this Friday and Saturday, July 5 and 6, at 8 p.m. and Sunday July 7 at 2 p.m. at The Hun School. The ambitious Westwind Repertory Company's next production will be Eugene O'Neill's The Iceman Cometh in November. For reservations, call 737-3746.

Opera Festival's Production of Verdi's "La Traviata" Introduces a Bright New Star to Area Audiences

The 1996 Opera Festival of New Jersey season continued this past weekend with the opening on Saturday night of Verdi's La Traviata. Directed by Michael Patrick Albano and conducted by Cal Stewart Kellogg, this production displayed a few pitfalls, but also introduced one bright new star to the Opera Festival audience.

Jennifer Casey Cabot, who performed the role of Violetta, has been performing in Germany for the past few years and is a newcomer to the Opera Festival roster. Ms. Cabot brought a wide range of acting skills and facial expressions, as well as a voice which always sounded fresh and vibrant, to this performance. It was clear from the moment she began to sing that Ms. Cabot would toss off the most demanding coloratura passages of the first act "Sempre libera" with ease, and throughout the performance, she never sounded tired or strained. Given the range of musical problems which surrounded her, Ms. Cabot was certainly a candidate for the "Best Trouper" award of this production.

The most apparent performance difficulties were the vocal problems of Joseph Wolverton, who sang the role of Alfredo. Mr. Wolverton's upper register was tight and constrained, and while Ms. Cabot sounded as though she could sing forever, Mr. Wolverton ran out of vocal stamina by the middle of the second act.

Battle over Tempo

Mr. Wolverton's vocal problems were then compounded by his ongoing battle of tempo with conductor Cal Stewart Kellogg. Although Mr. Wolverton's voice was clearly not holding up well through the performance, had he been provided more space in the music to breathe, his job might have been easier. Mr. Kellogg conducted much of the opera as if he were late for a train, creating a serious power struggle with some of his singers and players in the orchestra. This was most apparent in a second act duet when Mr. Kellogg was forced to slow down significantly to accommodate the drama of Violetta's lines because he had conducted Germont's passages at such a breakneck speed. Verdi's music begs for space to emote, and the singers seemed at times to be begging for room to breathe.

The roster of this production was filled out with solid performers, including veteran Perry Ward singing the role of Germont, and promising singers Natalie Arduino performing the role of Flora and Misa Iwana singing the role of Annina. The chorus was superbly prepared by Richard Tang Yuk but probably could have used a bit more stage direction to avoid falling into a "chorus line" formation throughout the opera.

The orchestra for Opera Festival is comprised primarily of Philadelphia's Concerto Soloists members, with some of Curtis Institute's finer young players augmenting the ensemble. These players performed the high-speed tempi almost flawlessly, and seemed only to falter during the overture to the third act, played with no vibrato and slight intonation problems by the strings.

Director Michael Albano set this production in its original 19th century, and Marie Miller's costuming was vintage Victorian — rich in burgundies, creams, and blues. Karen TenEyck's sets were imaginatively constructed in multilevels, and a wise decision was made not to use a lot of props or furniture to clutter the stage.

The musical problems with this production will hopefully calm down as the show progresses through its run. To see Ms. Cabot's performance is definitely worth the cost of admission, and the production succeeds in Mr. Albano's stated aim to present a "synthesis of music and drama" while striving for "clarity and simplistic elegance."

La Traviata will be performed again on July 5, 7 (2:00 matinee), 13, and 19. For ticket information call the Opera Festival box office at 936-1500.

MUSIC & THEATRE

Princeton Summer Theatre
To Present "The Crucible"

The Crucible, a drama written by Arthur Miller, opens July 5 at Princeton Summer Theater. The production is directed by Damian Long.

The play tells the story of the Salem witchcraft trials and explores the mass hysteria surrounding them. The hero, John Proctor (John McHale), who, at first, scoffs at the trials, is horrified when his wife Elizabeth (Suzanne Houston), is arrested, and he must come to terms with his own dark secret to save her.

Stocked with characters including Reverend Parris (Curtis Kaine), Abigail Williams (Emily Niebo), Governor Danforth (Robert Carroll), and John Hale (John Weeren), the play is one of Miller's most powerful works.

Damian Long played El Gallo in PST's production of The Fantasticks earlier in the season. This past year, he directed a production of David Mamet's American Buffalo on the Princeton campus.

John McHale is best known for his work on campus, as well - he played Horst in Theatre Intime's production of Bent, and Wisehammer in Our Country's Good. Suzanne Houston played Luisa in The Fantasticks and Laura in The Glass Menagerie. Curtis Laine has been seen in PST productions of Woit Until Dork and Much Ado About Nothing.

Robert Carroll has played lead and supporting roles in area productions, including Mercutio in Romeo and Juliet. John Weeren has appeared in The Seagull and several other area productions. Emily Niebo has played leading roles in Hightstown High School productions, among others.

The Crucible will play July 5, 6, 11, 12, and 13 at 8 p.m. and July 6, 7, 13, and 14 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for seniors and $6 for students and children. Matinee prices are $8 for adults, $6 for seniors and $4 for students and children.

Princeton Summer Theatre is located at Murray-Dodge Hall on Princeton University campus. Call 258-4950 for more information.

Crossroads Theater Plans Children's Workshop

Crossroads Theatre Company has announced its new, three-week summer theatre workshop for children ages 11 through 13. The workshop, which begins July 9, will be directed by actress/director Lynda Gravatt, who was most recently seen at Crossroads in May as 'Hattie' in the world premiere of Marian X's play The Screened-In Porch, as well as in several of the Theatre's 1996 Genesis Festival staged readings which concluded on June 9.

"As we open our doors to summer educational programming for the very first time we strive to engage our youth in the exploration of the powerful creative spirit that is in us all," said Ricardo Khan, Crossroads' Artistic Director.

The overall mission of the summer workshop is to combine arts, education and community. This concept was achieved through the expertise of the three collaborators who developed the program: Ricardo Khan, Penelope Latimer, Assistant Superintendent of the New Brunswick Board of Education and Crossroads Board of Trustees past President and current member, and Troy Epps, President of the Civic League of Greater New Brunswick, who will provide eight scholarships to young Civic League participants, enabling these young people to attend the Crossroads summer workshop.

The imagination of each of the 25 children will be nurtured and challenged through three hour sessions, three times a week for three weeks. These sessions will be conducted by professional actors, writers and producers, with surprise guest appearances by widely-recognized theatre artists at various points during the workshop. The workshop will culminate with a chaperoned field trip into New York City to see one of the current plays.

The cost of the workshop is $250 per student. For information contact Ami Govani, Assistant to the Artistic Director at (908) 249-5581, extension 41.

In the first year of this summer pilot program, 25 young people will be selected for participation in an exploration of theatre arts. These youngsters will be chosen from ethnically and culturally diverse communities, and will engage not only in workshops

"The Rake's Progress" Opera Festival Highlight

One of the highlights of Opera Festival of New Jersey's 1996 summer season will be the new production of Igor Stravinsky's 20th century classic, The Rake's Progress, opening on Friday evening, July 12 at 8 p.m. and repeat-

Caffe Pizza and DATAN On Top of Hoop Standings

With two full weeks of play complete, the shape of the Princeton Recreation Department's summer basketball league is beginning to reveal itself. Two undefeated squads, DATAN and Caffe Pizza, are at the top of the ladder, with Bunzl, SMB, and Tiger's Tale still threatening.

A week ago Monday, SMB chalked up a 78-47 win over Brookstreet Securities, with Alberto Baptiste leading the way. Baptiste scored 28, and teammate Clarence White had 18. For the losers, Scott Nolton came through with 16.

Caffe Pizza stopped Sam P. Electric 70-55, with Geoff Card and Mike D'Allegro scoring 26 and 25, respectively. Recent South Brunswick High grad Damon Lumpkin had 16 for Sam P.

In the nightcap, the two teams that contested for last year's title met again, and the result was a 59-40 DATAN win over Tiger's Tale. Kirk Webber scored 18 for DATAN, and Brian Williams had 12. Darius Young scored 17 for Tiger's Tale.

It should be noted that Tiger's Tale was missing four key players.

On Wednesday, June 26, DATAN squeezed past Cassavell Homes 49-44. A balanced DATAN attack saw Webber with 13, Marshawn

That achievement has never been equaled.

out 16 hits to Princeton's three.

The game was close for four innings. Ewing scored four in the second, but Princeton sent two across in the bottom of that frame to keep it tight. There was no more scoring until the top of the fifth, when Post 314 plated 10 runners. Post 218 could not answer, and the game was called on account of the 10-run rule.

Frank Bernazard and Nathan Dean scored the only Princeton runs. Bernazard was 1-for-2 with two stolen bases, and Dean had one steal.

Starter Omer Basatemur was removed in the fifth inning, having given up 10 runs on nine hits and four walks. Charlie King, in relief, allowed four runs on seven hits.

On Friday, a red-hot Hamilton Post 31 squad spanked Princeton 15-2. The game was halted after the fifth inning, due to the 10-run rule.

Tim Sheridan was 2-for-2 with a run scored for Post 218, and Rich Wright was 1-for-3 with a double, but all of the other highlights were Hamilton's. Post 31 had 15 hits off three Post 218 pitchers.

Arthur Gross got the start and was chased after 2.1 innings, having allowed 10 runs on nine hits and five walks.

Chris Cahoon allowed four runs on four hits over 1.1 innings, and Justin Miller allowed one run on two hits over the final 1.1 innings.

Princeton put a scare into Hightstown Post 148 on Monday, but couldn't get past the 12-strikeout pitching of the host squad's Osama Abdelwahab.

Hightstown led 4-0 entering the sixth inning, when Post

218 rallied. Dean and Gross walked, and Tim Sheridan reached on an error to load the bases. King struck out, but an Ebony Bernazard infield hit scored Dean.

Gross crossed the plate on an Abdelwahab error, and Sheridan scored on a wild pitch. Chris Butts walked, but a pop-out ended the inning. Princeton had only two hits in the game.

Basatemur pitched a complete game, allowing four runs on eight hits. He issued two walks.

• SAAB

PRE-OWNED SELECTION

At Saab we didn't set out to build a status symbol.

We just set out to build a better open car:

The Saab 900 Convertible.

It's a true four-passenger, four-season car; with triple-insulated top and a glass reef window, heated seats, and a wide choice of engines. Its practicality, as well as the sheer exuberance of driving it, led *Car and Driver to rate the Saab Convertible number one — ahead of BMW and Audi Convertibles. So while this may be an atypical convertible, it's a typical Saab.

Exhibits

The Gallery at Bristol-Myers Squibb will exhibit "Reflections Along the Canal: Delaware & Raritan Greenway" from July 3 through September 2. A reception celebrating the exhibition, to which the public is invited, will be held Sunday, July 14, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Featured are "plein air" paintings by Dorothy Bissell, Sylvia Cummings Kokatnur and Lucy Graves McVicker and photography by Clem Fiori which illustrates the beauty of the Delaware & Raritan canal. Mr. Fiori is known for his commitment to recording historical and environmental scenes of New Jersey. The three painters have devoted several years to capturing the beauty of the canal at key points throughout the seasons. Included in the exhibition will be maps and informational wall-text indicating the areas falling within the Greenway preservation program.

In addition to the regular exhibition, there will be two talks given at the gallery from 12 to 1 p.m. On July 24 Mr. Fiori will speak on the effect his environmental ethic has had on his art; on August 21, Peggy McNutt, executive director of Delaware & Raritan Greenway, will give a talk on the founding of Greenway, as well as its activities and volunteer opportunities.

Delaware & Raritan

Greenway is a regional, non-profit land conservancy dedicated to preserving the 400-square-mile watershed of Delaware and Raritan Canal State Park. Greenway was formed in the mid 1980's when a group of citizens, concerned with the loss of open space in central New Jersey, organized a land conservancy. Their mission is to preserve and protect Delaware & Raritan Canal State Park, stream corridors, including the flood plains, wetlands and stream-side vegetation in central New Jersey.

The 5,560-square-foot gallery overlooks a 12-acre lake and is located at the Bristol-Myers Squibb Pharmaceutical Group Headquarters on Route 206, three miles south of Princeton. It is open to the public at no charge. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday from 9 to 5, Thursday to 7 and weekends and holidays from 1 to 5. For gallery information, call 252-6275.

Rolling Down Window, Man Aids Own Arrest

A Plainsboro man was charged with possession of marijuana on Saturday, after he was stopped by a police officer directing traffic for the Fire Department's Inspection Parade.

Robert Oberholtzer, 47, of 18 Franklin Drive, was stopped at the intersection of Moore and Nassau streets at 11:15 a.m. The officer on traffic duty approached the car to explain the delay, and noticed the remains of a hand-rolled cigarette on the floor.

Mr. Oberholtzer rolled down the window, and the officer smelled the odor of burnt marijuana coming from inside the car. The charge was possession of an amount of marijuana under 50 grams. Mr. Oberholtzer was released on his own recognizance pending a court appearance.

A Borough officer pulled over a car on Nassau Street Thursday at 8:16 a.m., after a computer check revealed that the registered owner's driver's license had been revoked. The woman driving the car, 27-year-old Vandalar Square of Trenton, presented the officer with a Virginia driver's license that was soon found to belong to someone else.

Her license was, in fact, revoked, and Ms. Square was charged with driving on a revoked license and hindering prosecution.

Two girls caught shoplifting in a Nassau Street music store were turned over to police on Thursday evening. A clerk came upon the two girls, ages 12 and 13, in an aisle in the store. The elder of the two was tearing the security labels off cassette tapes.

The clerk detained the girls until police arrived. An investigation revealed that the younger girl was in possession of $46 worth of cosmetics and other items that had been stolen from Woolworth's.

The girls were processed and released to their families.

A member of the Borough Police bicycle patrol was on Walnut Lane at 10:15 p.m. Thursday when he saw a car drive past. In the passenger seat, he noticed a man whom he knew to be the subject of an arrest warrant.

He radioed for a patrol car, and a fellow officer stopped the car and arrested 26-year-old Jason Paige, of 181F Spruce Circle. Mr. Paige was wanted on contempt of court warrants from June 25. The bike was left locked to itself.

Also arrested was a second passenger, 19-year-old Joshua Deutch of 2 Woodmere Road. Mr. Deutch was charged with having an open container of beer in a motor vehicle, and with possession of marijuana. The driver of the car was neither arrested nor charged with any wrongdoing.

H. Gross Announces Move to Hulfish Street

Longtime Palmer Square retailer H. Gross and Company Outfitters will relocate next month to 51 Hulfish Street from One Palmer Square. The move coincides with a series of construction projects slated for One Palmer Square.

"In our constant efforts to maximize the potential of the Square, we are underway on a plan to double the retail space on One Palmer Square by adding a second level to the store currently occupied by H. Gross," said Palmer Square vice president David Newton. "What was most important to us in considering the move is that we're able to maintain our close ties to the Princeton community and the University students, faculty, staff and alumni. The move provides us with an opportunity to analyze how we might do that while establishing some new traditions as well. In fact, we've already come up with some great new ideas."

Among the new ideas are, a series of in-store events to benefit local charities and sponsorship of a bus trip to Newhaven on November 16 for the Princeton-Yale football game.

Mr. Gross says customers can expect to see some new product lines at the Hulfish location, and he promises to carry his Princeton sweats and the popular STX line of lacrosse and field hockey equipment. H. Gross and Company Outfitters will open on Hulfish Street on July 15, and construction at One Palmer Square should begin soon thereafter pending permit approvals.

F. Schumacher & Co. is expected to move into the store at One Palmer Square. The two-level store will offer a large selection of home furnishings.

QUALITY OF LIFE

My Merrill Lynch
Financial Consultant encourages me to ask questions.

— She's a very good listener.

Decisions regarding large sums of money can be a challenge. But if you're like most women, you approach financial decisions by marshalling the facts, comparison-shopping, asking questions.

And that's smart business.

Because, while a Merrill Lynch Financial Consultant can help you understand the markets, only you know your financial dreams, goals, and personal investment style. It takes both of us — working together — to develop a financial plan with specific strategies to help you realize those financial dreams.

That's why our Financial Consultants encourage you — and all our clients — to ask as many questions as necessary. Because sound financial planning is a dialogue, not a monologue.

To find out how a Merrill Lynch Financial Consultant can help you take control of your financial future, write or call the number below for a place at our free Investment Seminar for Women.

The difference is planning.

The difference is Merrill Lynch.

For his post-WWII efforts to "further and strengthen the friendship and alliance" between the United States and Germany, and for his "role in building a new and lasting era of German-American friendship and partnership," he was awarded the Commander's Cross of the Order of Merit by German President Theodore Heuss in 1959. The Goethe Institute conferred on him its Gold Medal in 1966, when he also received the Gundoll Prize from the German Academy of Language and Literature.

He then taught at Princeton University for 20 years until his retirement in 1977. He was a visiting professor at numerous colleges and universities in Germany, Australia, New Zealand and the United States, and was "Honorary Professor" at the Free University of Berlin.

Prof. Lange received two Guggenheim Fellowships, was McCosh Fellow at Princeton, Phi Beta Kappa visiting scholar, NEH Senior Fellow, and Fellow at the Humanities Research Centre, Canberra, Australia.

In 1965 he was elected president of the International Society of Germanists, and hosted the 1970 meeting in Princeton. He also organized the Princeton meeting of the "Gruppe 47" in 1966, where Benson Carlin, 80, a pioneer in the development of ultrasonic imaging and testing, died June 22 at St. Mary's Hospital in Langhorne, Pa. A long-time Princeton resident, he was born in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Mr. Carlin graduated from Brooklyn College in 1935 with an A.B. degree, and received his M.A. from the State University of New York in Albany in 1936. After holding a number of positions as both a teacher and radio technician, he developed a program for radio engineering for the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, where he taught until July 1943.

His interest in radio engineering led to early development work on ultrasonic testing, first at the Radiation Laboratory at M.I.T. and then at Sperry Products, where he eventually became Chief of New Products Research. While there, he developed the first commercial ultrasonic pulse tester.

In 1949, Mr. Carlin wrote the first book on this new technology in English, Ultrasonics. He also published numerous articles on ultrasonic applications, and presented many papers. His work on high-frequency sound imaging led to his developing new medical imaging equipment, including the first ultrasonic brain scanner, as well as humidifiers, cleaners, and whistles, earning more than 50 patents for his designs. In 1953, he founded Alcar Instruments to develop specialized ultrasonic equipment.

Through the 1960s, Mr. Carlin increasingly worked on medical equipment design, eventually becoming Director of Research and Engineering for Air Shields, a major producer of medical equipment. In 1970, he became President of OEM Medical, Inc., a maker of oxygen therapy equip-est idea of what that means.

David (the younger Solomon) was not only brought up in fencing, but is a graduate engineer from Purdue University where he spent 5 years learning information he uses in the business daily. David, who now runs the company under his father's watchful eye, is continuing the business in the family tradition.

Suburban Fence Company, located at 532 Mulberry Street, Trenton, N.J., is one of the oldest and largest fence companies in the U.S.A. It is situated just a few feet from US #1 near the Lawrenceville border of Trenton on several blocks of land. There you will find just about any and every kind of fence available in its huge inventory, as well as raw materials to manufacture many others. On its premises are large quantities of fencing, a store, showroom, offices, welding shop, mechanician shop, and a manufacturing facility.

The company employs many skilled workers, including one crew chief, James, who has been with them for about a quarter of a century.

The elder Solomon states that he has sold to the children and grandchildren of previous buyers on many occasions.

While most fence companies seem to come on the scene and disappear, Suburban Fence is here to stay. Suburban's customers not only include home owners and businesses, but also many governmental agencies, such as the armed forces, schools and prisons, as well as dealers, farms and lumber yards.

Suburban's emergency repair force is on call 24 hrs a day, all year round.

INVEST IN ORGANIC FUTURES

The principle behind organic farming is simple - work with nature to increase the natural fertility of the soil and you create a healthy environment for your crops, your workers, and your community. And, because you don't rely on petrochemical pesticides, your customers have less worry about pesticide residues on their food. The Whole Earth Center believes that organic farming makes a lot of sense both in the short- and the long-term. That's why all of the fresh produce we sell is certified organic and why we carry a wide range of packaged and bulk items that are also organically-grown. These include baby food, cereals, juices, coffees, teas, dairy products, soups, crackers, pasta, snack foods, tofu, flours, rice, grains, and more. We also have books about organic gardening, natural lawn care, and natural foods cooking. Come in and learn more about the benefits of organic farming. It's an idea with a big future.
